

How to Sign Up on stctc.org

Before you can access member-only features on stctc.org, you need to sign up. STC members are validated against the STC.org member database, which uses the STC username and password.

What makes things even more of a challenge is that the validation program uses the original STC username, which is the STC member number. Sigh. It's not on our end that this situation exists, but there you go. So: if you have changed your STC username to anything other than your member number, you'll need to revert to the member number as your username. Then, come back to stctc.org and sign up with that username and password, and you'll be able to add a different name to your profile (like your name).

I apologize for this long-winded explanation, but I felt it was important to explain the nuance.
